

GOMPERSE FOR AN INCREASE IN DEFENSES

PRESIDENT OF FEDERATION OF LABOR INDORSSES MOVEMENT FOR NATIONAL PREPAREDNESS.

MUST BE DEMOCRATIC

Military Arm of Government Must Be Organized With Full Recognition of Workers, He Tells of Civic Federation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 18.—Adequate preparedness for national defense was advocated here today by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a speech before a session of the annual convention of the National Civic Federation devoted to that subject. While he insisted that military organization must be democratic and that the nation must be organized against the evil of militarism, Mr. Gompers declared that "America's own freedom had been achieved by resistance of tyranny and that pacifists failed to understand the quality of the human race which made men willing to risk their all for an ideal."

Must Fight for Progress. "Men worthy of the name," he said, "will fight even for a scrap of paper when that paper represents ideas of human justice and freedom. There is little progress made in the affairs of the world in which resistance of others is not involved. Though we may realize the brutality of war, though we may know the value of life, yet we know equally well that would be the effect upon the lives of our people would be to deprive them of rights, rather than hazard their physical safety. The progress of the ages has come as the result of protest against wrong, of existing conditions and through the assistance of rights and effective demands for justice. Our own freedom and republican form of government has been achieved by the struggle against tyranny and insubordination upon rights. Freedom and democracy dare not be synonymous with weakness."

As the result of the European war, there has been a change in the degree of preparedness and national defense. The belief prevails that there must be some policy of preparedness and national defense, although there is wide divergence as to what policies ought to be adopted.

Must Organize Resources. "National preparedness involves power to control the resources of the nation and natural resources. War as it is waged today, is not determined merely by the men on the battlefield, but also by the mobilization of national resources, including industries, commerce, and the material forces and resources of the nation. The coordination of these resources is the fundamental principle of a defensive military policy."

"Whatever plans may be adopted," said Mr. Gompers, explaining the attitude of the labor organization toward the movement of American defense, "certain fundamental principles must be regarded. All policies and plans for national defense must be determined by representatives of the people. The organized labor movement, which is the only means for expressing the will and desires of the great masses of our citizenship, asserts its right to representation in all committees or bodies that decide upon military defense."

Labor Demands Democracy. "The labor movement demands democracy in all things including military organization and defense of the country. It holds that policies and methods of self defense are best safeguarded when there is equal opportunity for all members of the community. The organized labor movement, which is the only means for expressing the will and desires of the great masses of our citizenship, asserts its right to representation in all committees or bodies that decide upon military defense."

The labor movement has never advocated the abolition of agencies for enforcement of right and justice or for abolition of the military arm of the government, but it does demand that these shall be so organized as to prevent the misuse and abuse as a means of tyranny against the workers, to prevent the development of pernicious results that have grown out of militarism, and to prevent the building up of a separate military caste and a separate military caste to military government and military standards."

Other Prominent Speakers. Speaking pleas for national preparedness and vigorous attacks on militarism, "peace at any price" advocates were made by speakers of national prominence at the closing session today of the annual meeting of the National Civic Federation.

The speakers included Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, John Hayes Hammond, Senators Wadsworth and Aldrich, Governor O'Neil of Alabama, Arthur H. Doherty, secretary of the Navy League of the United States, and Talcott Williams of New York, dean of the Pulitzer School of Journalism.

"We are forced to the conclusion, however, that we may be to the profligate expenditure of the nation's funds, that military and naval defense, even in the case of a peace treaty, is imperative in the present status of international relations," declared Mr. Hammond. He said that only two objections could be made against preparedness. First, by the "peace at any price" class, because they fear the development of a militaristic mania; second, the question of costs. Mr. Hammond urged that the proposed expenditure of one billion dollars beyond the country's present military budget, be looked upon as "a business investment" and insurance—not always effective against war—but which will at least minimize the distress incident to war.

Not a Political Issue. The speakers said that the present party was not the time for either political party to make political capital for campaign purposes.

SAYS LABOR OPPOSES PREPAREDNESS PLANS

MINE WORKERS' PRESIDENT BELIEVES MUNITIONS MANUFACTURERS ARE BEHIND MOVE.

ADVISES WAGE INQUIRY

Thorough Investigation of Present Industrial Situation Will Be Undertaken Before Making Demands.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 18.—John P. White, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared in his biennial report, read to the delegates of the Union in convention here today, that he was "fully convinced that the men of labor are unalterably opposed to the whole scheme of preparedness." Mr. White commended President Wilson for keeping the country at peace, and said that too much praise "cannot be given in this direction." The leader of the miners then referred to preparedness and asserted that "the munition manufacturers who are reaping enormous profits by reason of the European war no doubt have much to do with the general topic of preparedness."

Preparedness, he said, "prevents war in Europe and encourages peace in this country." "Many of its advocates do not base their claims on the patriotism or love of country, but if they are manifesting in preparedness is due to the profits they would derive from such a policy. The experience of the workingmen of this nation with military organizations has been such as to shake their confidence in such movements."

Thirteen Hundred Delegates. The delegates to the convention, numbered delegates at the opening session of the convention.

The most important business to come before the convention probably will be the demand of the miners in the new wage agreements that the miners be signed in the hard and soft coal districts of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky, Michigan, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Texas, Montana, Wyoming and Washington. Where the present agreements expire this year, the suggestion that the miners continue work while the new demands are being considered, and as long as there is a chance, that an agreement be reached. Preparedness of the country for war will be discussed.

Urges Wage Investigation. Taking up organization matters, Mr. White said in his address, referred to the fact that the miners' contract will expire April 1 in the anthracite field, and in central and western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky, Iowa, and Kentucky, and later in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Wyoming, Montana, Washington, and in British Columbia.

"I am sure," he said, "that the miners will not be satisfied with a small increase in their wages, but will demand a more substantial increase. The speaker urged creation of adequate navy as a first line of defense, an efficient standing army of several hundred thousand men, and the adoption of the Swiss or Australian plan of universal service to make up a reserve army."

Declaring that the United States, if ever defeated in war, must pay an indemnity reaching as high as ten billion dollars, if the tribute laid on France by Germany in 1871 had been taken as a measure, Mr. White said that the nation on this enormous sum would be as large as any expenditure now proposed for increasing this country's army and navy. For all the time added, this interest charge would be paid on the industries of the land and any attempt to throw this aside would destroy national solvency.

Demands of Peace. "The growing reason for an adequate army and navy for the United States," said Mr. White, "is not war, but peace. The boundaries of the country need defense, but no more than its duties need discharge. Mr. White urged adoption of naval policy that the United States second to none. He also advocated a general staff for the navy, an improved personal law, and an increase of 20,000 men and naval armaments to fully man all useful ships."

Heavy Loss Caused by Kerosene Fires. Stove, Lamp and Lantern Explosions Bring Total Loss of $84,970 in State in One Year. (Special to the Gazette.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 18.—If the first started by kerosene, which do great damage, could be avoided in Wisconsin more than $84,970 would be saved annually. This statement is contained in a circular issued by the state fire marshal today.

During the fiscal year, there were reported to the department 42 kerosene lamp explosions, 9 lantern explosions and 65 kerosene stove explosions. The fires resulting therefrom caused a total loss of $84,970. The losses in the department would pay the running expenses of the department for three years.

"Kerosene is really the blameless agent of human carelessness," says J. Cleary in his public statement. "We have often cautioned against the starting of fires with kerosene and still more against the use of kerosene for quickening a sluggish fire, yet each year this practice calls for a heavy toll of lives and property in our state."

Speaking of the use of kerosene lanterns, Mr. Cleary says that the globe should be well protected with wire, and when not carried should be hung from firm supports at a good height out of reach of "Mrs. O'Leary's cow."

M'GOVERN TO ENTER RACE AT PRIMARY

HEEDS CALL OF FRIENDS AND ENTERS CONTEST FOR GOVERNMENT NOMINATION.

WAIT PHILIPP'S WORD

When He Formally Enters the Race It Makes It a Three Corned Affair as In the Last Campaign.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Jan. 18.—Following announcement of Senator Otto Bosshard that he would become a candidate for governor at the September primaries, came the announcement today of the acceptance of ex-Governor Francis E. McGovern as a candidate in answer to the call of large representation throughout the state.

The expected candidacy of Governor E. L. Philipp later will make the republican gubernatorial contest in Wisconsin a three cornered affair.

McGovern's advent into the race is not unexpected, although a trifle earlier than anticipated. It has been known for some weeks past he has been sending out his factors to see whether he should run for governor or United States senator. He decided upon the governorship and refused to take part in the republican convention at Madison January 17th. His direct announcement is the result of a consultation of some of his closest followers in Milwaukee Monday.

Judge H. L. Maxfield, representing Rock county at the conference, with W. L. Hurlbut, Omro; H. H. Heavy, Washburn; Zeno Kost, Milwaukee, and Arthur P. Fehn of Wausau, drew up the resolution which asked the former governor to again become a candidate. This request endorsed the achievements of McGovern while governor, criticized the Philipp administration and paid tribute to the greatness of the man they sought to announce himself as a candidate.

This will be followed by active work in all parts of the state in behalf of McGovern. It is stated by those who touch with the situation that McGovern will hope to have a deal with the La Follette gubernatorial candidate and support the senator for reelection. This, however, failed, and Otto Bosshard of La Crosse, La Follette's right hand man in the last session of the legislature, has been designated as the La Follette choice.

While Governor Philipp has not made any announcement, he will be a candidate for reelection, it is probable this will come after his endorsement by the republican state convention in Madison. With Philipp in the field it will be a merry three cornered fight for the nomination at the September primaries. Friends of McGovern have been persistently denying the report that Philipp would be a candidate for reelection, but those closest to the governor deny this, although it is known he has been talked of seriously early last fall.

WILSON WILL TOUR IN CENTRAL STATES FOR DEFENSE PLANS

White House Today Completing Itinerary For President in The Middle West.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

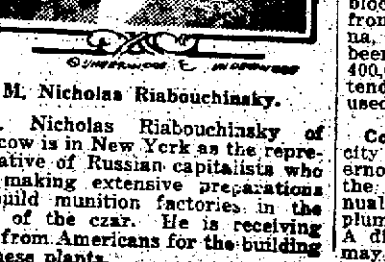

Washington, Jan. 18.—Preparation of itineraries for several speaking trips, President Wilson expects to take within the next few months to the central states, began today at the White House. The president believes that in some sections of the country the necessity of strengthening the army and navy is not fully realized.

Invitation to visit four hundred cities, including Chicago and Milwaukee, and points in the south and far west, have been received. These are now before the president for decision on which to accept.

Indications today were that the president will deliver most of his addresses in the middle west with possibly some in the south.

FIRING SQUAD KILLS VILLA BANDIT CHIEF

COL. VALLES BEFORE EXECUTION PROTESTS HE IS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR VILLA'S ACTS.

CAPTURE NINE OTHERS

Enrique Cisneros and Eight Followers Being Marched to Juarez Where They Will Be Shot Down.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 18.—Colonel Miguel Baca Valles, bandit chief, captured at Palomas, south of Columbus, New Mexico, was executed at five o'clock this morning by a firing squad at Juarez. Two bullets fired at close quarters penetrated his heart after he had declared he was not responsible for robberies of Villa, and pleaded to see General Cavia, Carranza commandant.

Nine Other Bandits Caught. Lieutenant Colonel Enrique Cisneros, who was captured last week with Baca Valles, is being marched overland with eight followers caught with him and, according to Mexican officials, will be placed promptly before a firing squad.

Baca Valles arrived here last night on the train which brought the body declared to be that of Jose Rodriguez, the bandit chief executed near Matamoros last Thursday. The two bodies were later taken to the Mexican customs house to be viewed by Americans who have expressed doubt as to identity of the men executed.

Baca Valles, who was known as Villa's most famous executioner at Juarez, was taken from the train in which he arrived a few minutes before five o'clock.

Execution Causes No Stir. He was marched through the dimly lighted platform of the railway station where his family spread their nightgowns. Executions have been so frequent at Juarez in the final days of the Villa regime, however, that not a ripple of interest was shown. The proceedings were brief. The prisoner said: "I am not responsible for the acts and robberies of Villa. I beg to see your general."

The officer commanding the firing squad said he had orders to kill, and a soldier stepped up close to Valles and fired point blank into the prisoner's heart. The body was then taken back to the railroad station, where it lay uncovered until after dawn on the platform, among men, women and children lying about wrapped in blankets.

Hundred Refugees Arrive. More than one hundred refugees from Parral, Chihuahua, arrived here early today, aboard a special train. There were a number of women and children in the party. The refugees reported that Villa troops are scouring the country for anything of value they can find that belongs to foreigners. Some of the refugees asserted the Villa troops are moving in small bands to join the forces of General Argumedo, who defeated the Carranza forces January 10 at Escalon.

They asserted that Argumedo had a plan to attack and capture Juarez. It is said he has a force of 6,000 men, and Villa is reported to be able to muster several thousand others. The body of General Jose Rodriguez, executed last Thursday, it was officially reported, was brought to Juarez last night. He was alleged to have been the leader of the band that executed eighteen foreigners at Santa Ysabel a week ago last Monday.

PLACE OF CUSTODY OF UPDIKE YOUTHS IS KEPT A SECRET

Prospective Bondsmen for Brothers Who Confessed to Plotting Parents' Murder, Unable to Find Them.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 18.—Prospective bondsmen for Irving and Herbert Updike, brothers, who confessed plotting to take the life of their father, Furman D. Updike, wealthy retired broker of Oak Park, were unable to find the young men today.

Police Chief Lee of Oak Park said he did not know where the two had been taken. A justice of the police station said he had committed the two to the Cook county jail, but had no knowledge where they had been taken. The county jailer said the young men were not in the jail.

It was believed they were held either in Oak Park police station, or in some city police station, while the police looked more closely into their confessions.

The present attitude of Mr. Updike is that Herbert, who yesterday said he joined the plot to defeat the purpose of his brother, Irving, should have made a speedier revelation of the designs against his parents.

Irving was said by his relatives to be suffering from a mental disorder, but Herbert was always regarded as normal but his relations with a cabaret singer with whom he journeyed to Crown Point, Ind., where he procured a marriage license, are being inquired into.

The attorney who sought to give bail for the two presented his sureties to the justice for approval and said if the young men were not speedily forthcoming, he would take immediate steps to obtain their release through the courts.

Allied Forces Reported to Have Been Disembarked at Corinth, But Later to Have Returned to the Ships.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Jan. 18.—A note to the Greek government amounting to an ultimatum is said by the Overseas News Agency to have been presented by France and Great Britain. According to a Sofia dispatch to the news agency Greece is required to deliver their passports to the ministers of the central powers, within forty-eight hours sailing, after which the entente allies will take "necessary measures."

Berlin previously reported that the allies were adopting extreme measures with Greece, having landed troops at the port of Athens. It has been charged by the Greek press that the allies were preparing to depose King Constantine and establish a republic with former Premier Venizelos as its head.

Land Troops at Corinth. London, Jan. 18.—A dispatch from Amsterdam to the Exchange Telegraph company says that French and British troops have been landed at Corinth, Greece, forty-eight miles west of Athens.

One hundred and twenty thousand Austrians and Germans are being massed at Gjevghli.

BRITISH-GERMAN SPY APPREHENDED IN U. S.

Former Member of Parliament Escaped From Deputy Marshall in New York City Sunday.

New York, Jan. 18.—Ignatius T. Trebich Lincoln, a former member of the British parliament and confessed German spy and who was being held for extradition to England, escaped from his captors, a deputy marshal last Saturday. It was learned today and has not been seen since. The United States marshal here has not been seen since. A national-wide search is being ordered. It is thought in some quarters Lincoln boarded an outgoing steamer shortly after his escape. Lincoln had been held in Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn, since last August, and was allowed numerous privileges. He was writing a book on international espionage systems, and went to the Brooklyn federal building last week, always accompanied by a deputy marshal. With Frank Johnson, a deputy marshal, Lincoln visited the Federal building in New York, and later stopped in a restaurant after ordering lunch. Lincoln went to the lavatory. When the prisoner did not reappear in ten minutes, Johnson began a search.

Are Boys' Shoes Made of Paper?

Mother sometimes is prone to think so, as she sees them rent in tatters. She wonders if leather has gone out of use by shoemakers. Of course, the shoe a healthy boy could not wear out is one he couldn't wear. But there are degrees in boy's shoes. Some are very much better than others. Several brands have been built up by a maintained reputation for sterling qualities. Mother should look into this shoe question carefully—and a good way to gather information is to read the advertising in a live newspaper like The Gazette.

BABES MOTHERLESS; FATHER IS MISSING

Search Is Being Made for Jack Devine Who Is Known in Janesville—His Disappearance a Mystery.

Two motherless children, all that is left of the family, await the return of Jack Devine, who has been missing since October twelfth from his home in Chicago. About a month ago the Janesville police received word from the mother stating that she was ill, and she begged the Janesville police to find her husband and have him come to her during her illness.

Today the Janesville police received word from the grandmother that the two motherless children are in Chicago. Evidently the wife waited in vain for the husband to come back to her during her moments of trial. The case was subject to diligent work by the police department and soon weeks ago Chief of Police P. D. Champion traced Devine from Janesville to Jefferson, but the authorities could not find him to inform him of the fate of his wife. The police say that there are no warrants out for his arrest, nor will he be taken into custody, but his two daughters and relatives wish him to return and fulfill his obligations.

Devine is well known here and his photograph has been furnished to the police departments of many cities in southern Wisconsin. Devine is a baseball player and also a bowler. Many young men in Janesville are acquainted with him and any information that will reveal his present whereabouts will be appreciated by the police and the relatives of the young man.

TOBACCO IS MOVING INTO MARKET HERE

Deliveries Being Made at Warehouses.—Much Is Being Shipped to Outside Centers.

Tobacco delivery opened this week in the local market with heavy loads of bundles. Assorting operations are under way in several warehouses. As was expected the presence of shipping delayed and some weeks ago. While a good amount of tobacco country has found disposal in the local market, nevertheless there is a considerable quantity being shipped to outside points. This morning at North River street for the American Tobacco company for shipping to nearby warehouses.

The farm shipping is nearly all completed, good case weather having been experienced over a week ago. The present cold snap tended to terminate the farm work for the time being, but the amount of stripping which remains can be cleaned up in short order.

Occasional sales of remnants of the crop either not contracted for or held by the grower in expectancy of a rising market are reported.

OSWEGO TEAM TROUNCES APPLETON AT FOND DU LAC

The Janesville rooters for the Lakota Cardinals need not feel so bad over the Lakota's defeat by a score of 12 to 5 Saturday, for the Oswego team trounced the Appleton ideals last night by a score of 42 to 12. The game was played at Fond du Lac. After obtaining a safe lead on the Appleton team the Oswego slackened their efforts to score. The New Yorkers have games scheduled for every night this week, playing two games at Rockford against Company K.

Another Wonderful Recovery From Kidney Trouble

For nearly nine years I was a great sufferer from what my doctor said was kidney trouble and my blood was out of order, enduring all that time excruciating pain in my back and across my bowels. I was drawn down so that I could only walk with my hands on my knees. My doctor said he could do nothing for me. I tried many kinds of medicine but all to no avail. A friend told me about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and as I had tried everything else that I heard of, I bought a bottle of Swamp-Root and it did wonders for me. I prize it higher than any other medicine and I shall recommend it to my friends. I wish to add right here that after using Swamp-Root for two months I began to straighten up and am now sound and well, and feel like I might live a long time yet to tell what your medicine has done for me.

Yours very truly,

In the issue of the Gazette on January 5th was published a table showing the distribution of taxes on the assessed valuation of 1915. By referring to it it will be possible to tell just what proportion of the taxpayer's money goes for state expenses, for county and city purposes and for schools. The table shows these divisions for every township, village and city in Rock county. A superficial study will show that the taxes levied this year for state and county purposes are comparatively low while the amount expended for schools and for

JOY IN LIFE.

Try to make life joyous for yourself and for others as well. Joy is the color of life. It is not the color in the surroundings of a life, but it is something belonging to the individual, something which, when once taken home to the heart, can never again be lost, be the skies overhead blue or gray.

A Great Chess Player.

Sir Walter Parratt had an extraordinary memory. Some eight or ten men were assembled one evening in one of the lodges attached to St. Michael's college, Tenbury. Sir Walter Parratt and Herr von Holst played in turn upon the piano such music as was asked for. This went on for some time, until at last the chessboard was brought out. Sir Walter then proposed to play two men at chess in consultation, still remaining at the piano and playing from memory what was demanded either from Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Chopin or Mendelssohn. Without even a glance at the chessboard he won the game in an hour—London Globe.

Description of Holyport, Where German Officers Are Guarded

(By Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 15.—Next to Donnington Hall, Holyport is the most important German officers' prison in England and for the first time the authorities have permitted an unofficial newspaper to visit the camp.

Most of the prisoners have their quarters in the large building of the Holyport army preparatory school, but there is an increase in their numbers and it has been necessary to supplement this with temporary wooden structures built in the school yard. The chief school building was erected by Charles Gwynne. It has been restored for school purposes, and, while architecturally ugly in appearance, forms a comfortable roomy building for its present use.

The temporary huts are built close about the main building and the whole camp, which does not occupy more than three acres, is surrounded by a high wall of barbed wire and a single sentry post. The camp is a large brick residence at the Holyport school grounds which has been used as a country house. The company of soldiers guarding the prisoners occupy the stables and laundries in the rear of these quarters, which is entirely devoted to the quarters of the imprisoned officers and their orderlies.

Have Athletics. When the party of neutral correspondents arrived at the camp, the prisoners were preparing to leave the house for the eighteen-acre athletic field. Twice weekly the prisoners are permitted to play football, basketball, and other sports. They have the privilege of using the field for two and one-half hours, but the half hour period twice weekly is compulsory. In the summer months the prisoners were in almost constant use of this form of sport at which the Germans were particularly keen. Football and hockey are now played with the officers, prison orderlies taking a lively interest in the first named game at which they have become quite adept.

A few minutes before the arrival of the recreation hour, an armed patrol is stationed about the wire fence which encloses the field. The officers then stroll from the house in groups through the main gate of the prison and down a lane between a row of sentries to the field. Later their orderlies appear under escort of an armed guard. The groups that reach the field remain intact, and according to the British officers in charge, the same grouping takes place within the prison. Differences of rank and social position are sharply accentuated and only broken down in the event of a general celebration of some sort. Among the prisoners are a number of navy officers and crew members between the army and navy is particularly apparent in the relations of the officers.

Brilliant Uniforms. The visit to the camp was made on a wintry afternoon when the vivid and picturesque uniforms of the officers gave a touch of color to the dismal surroundings. The presence among the officers of so many brilliant, garrison uniforms is accounted for by the fact that whenever a German reserve officer was captured in action he was usually in full uniform. The officers captured at the battle of the Falkland Islands, wear blue uniforms which differ little in appearance from those of their captors. While the officers were in the recreation ground the visitors were conducted through their quarters. The quarters are well equipped with bath tubs from the school, which while hardly man's size are plentifully supplied with hot water. During the summer the officers had the use of a swimming tank, but as the winter has compelled them to give up this pleasure.

The Ground Floor Here. The ground floor of the house contains several large rooms used as smoking and lounging rooms by the officers, but these are seldom occupied as the prisoners seem to prefer the small sitting rooms, which have been partitioned off from their bedrooms. The second and third floors are given up to bedrooms in which from one to six officers sleep. Besides the open grate hearth, each room has one or more good closed stoves and with every window the visitors who had been accused of spying on the prisoners.

The quarters in the temporary wooden huts within the enclosure are equally comfortable. In the basement of the building are the kitchen, dining room, school room and dispensary. More than a dozen day cooks tend their own commissaries, which cost them about fifty cents daily. The looking menu provided by a typical German chef is varied, and sustaining.

Within the wire enclosure the prisoners are left alone, for except on occasional visits of inspection, no British uniforms are seen within the gates. Lieutenant Colonel Sir John Gladstone, commandant of the camp, has made as few rules as possible and left their enforcement to the British orderlies. These rules are of the type to which military forces on active service are usually subject, and except that no liberty is ever given beyond the bounds of the prison, the officers suffer no greater restrictions than their captors in charge of the camp.

Guarded Carefully. The prisoners, who number one hundred and twenty-five, are guarded by fifty-two British men and navy officers, under the command of the commander, Buchanan, who was second in command of the cruiser Goeben, which went down in the Falkland Islands battle. Sharp and ceaseless guard, however, is kept over the prisoners, for at the end of the war every German officer prisoner must make a statement of what efforts he made to escape, and the British captors believe that no chance will be given to a single prisoner who has succeeded in doing so. Thus far, but the guards discovered a tunnel which had progressed ed eleven feet of the sixty yards necessary to reach underneath the barbed wire fence. Outside of this fence armed guards are on constant watch, and apparently careless of the Zeppelin peril, the place is brilliantly illuminated at night.

The visitors were permitted to talk to a number of the prisoners and among them The Associated Press correspondent found several who call America home. Among these was Victor von Borosini, a well known social worker of Chicago who has long been connected with Hull House. Like most of his colleagues who live in the United States, von Borosini was eager to hear the latest news from his home city. Among other residents of America among the prisoners were Dr. Arnold Kohlschutter, astronomer of Mt. Wilson Observatory, California, who finds much leisure in the prison for astronomical research work; Dr. Friedrichsberg of New York, who was connected with the Panama Canal at one time in an engineering capacity; Captain Kurt Besser of Los Angeles; Milton Herrmann, son of the president of the Deutsche bank and connected with the New York branch of that institution. Among other noted prisoners are Dr. Martin Luther, surgeon of the Kaiser Wilhelm, and Dr. Lutz, an authority on South American affairs.

GERMANS ESTABLISH LINE CONNECTION AT EACH END OVER FRENCH MOUNTAINS

In the Argonne, France, Jan. 18.—"All Aboard for Bagdad." Such was the humorous suggestion of a bright German officer as the tiny engine on the Argonne railway whistled for its departure.

From the Argonne to Bagdad is quite a stretch, even for the imagination, and yet, through the seemingly impossible construction of a railroad through the French mountains, the Germans have in fact established a connection, more or less direct, but nevertheless unbroken from the trenches at the front in the west to the Asiatic city of the Turkish ally.

To build the Argonne railway, the Germans went to an abandoned French mine, and from a depth of some 900 meters resurfaced miles of track which at the end of care and trouble has been laid on the surface, over land so swampy and difficult that the first train came to grief simply through sinking into the ground.

Thus far two main lines have been constructed—the one 80 centimeters wide (31 inches) and the other 1.5 meters wide (59 inches). On the section nearest the actual front, benzol engines are used, because of their comparative noiselessness. Farther away from the trenches they steam engines draw the diminutive trains.

The engines have an approximate capacity of four cars—better perhaps the rails and roadbed can stand that much weight without disappearing from view—and are busy every hour of the twenty-four in the transportation of troops, supplies, ammunition and, when possible, wounded.

Automobiles which have come to grief on the terrible roads of the Argonne have been rebuilt, and have been equipped with 37 or 38.5 wheels of steel in order that they may serve as "cars de luxe" for officers who have to travel from one point to another behind the front. The sight of officers lolling back in dismantled machines towed by diminutive locomotives invariably provokes first merriment, and then admiration for the system that has literally made something out of nothing and has found a way to overcome the difficulties of the almost impossible Argonne roads.

These difficulties have been enormous. Rainy weather has been the rule rather than the exception in the Argonne for months, and it has been a gigantic task to keep the roads rutted by supply trains and ammunition columns and artillery—from degenerating into mere bogs. The task of maintaining regular and workable communications with the extreme front has been unbelievably hard.

GREEK PAPERS PLAY BIG PART IN NATION

Troops Astounded at Number of Papers in Saloniki—Active in Political Affairs.

[By Associated Press.] Saloniki, Greece, Jan. 18.—The French and British troops stationed in Saloniki since the beginning of the Balkan undertakings have ceased to marvel at the number of newspapers able to live in a city of normally only 150,000 inhabitants, of which a large percentage cannot read or write. Though the second city of Greece since its conquest by the Greeks in the last Balkan war, Saloniki has never been so near to any real sense as the Greek city. Indeed, a scant 25 per cent of the population is Greek. Yet the city supports five Greek daily newspapers, three morning and two afternoon journals. Besides these, probably the most widely read of all is the unique daily, the Forward, which is printed in Hebrew characters for the benefit of the overwhelming Jewish population of the place—but Hebrew characters spelling out Spanish, not Hebrew words.

The newspapers of all Greece play a very minor part in the national part in the politics of the land, the occupation of the Greeks. There is no such thing in Greece as a politically independent newspaper, in the sense that a newspaper may be politically independent of the United States or France. Every Greek daily is either for or against Venizelos—that being the cardinal political test. This is true, of course, of those in Saloniki as well.

The Light, a morning, and The New Truth, an evening journal, are the Greek anti-Venizelist organs, though the former in addition to being bitterly opposed to the late Premier is also pronouncedly pro-German. The Macedonia and the Greece, both morning journals, are Venizelist organs in Saloniki, though the Anchor, a morning journal, while more militant than anything else, also supports Venizelos. The Spanish-Hebrew evening paper, the Forward, is, as its name implies, socialist in politics and pro-German.

While a mixture of Spanish and Italian is the current tongue spoken by the great majority of the inhabitants of Saloniki, French is also spoken widely, generally understood and universally read. There are, therefore, four French dailies published in Saloniki—a morning and an evening paper for each political point of view. But in respect of the newspapers published in France, there is a partisanship on the subject of the European war in the Greek press, though the morning and evening papers are the word-bearers of the Entente Powers and especially of the French, though both are edited by natives of Saloniki. On the other hand, The Courier of Saloniki and The New Country, both in French, are accepted as almost official pro-

LACK OF MERCHANT VESSELS IN BRITAIN

Johnny Bull is Soberly Troubled in Getting Ships to Carry for his Over-Sea Trade—German Skinning Them.

[By Associated Press.] London, Jan. 18.—The question of tonnage for carrying the overseas trade is particularly acute, owing to the scarcity of tonnage under the British mercantile flag is causing a good deal of anxiety. A week or two ago, an unofficial announcement was made that work might be resumed on mercantile ship-building in various yards of Great Britain but so far as official confirmation has been received and from the meagre reports regarding government orders in several yards it seems that there is very little likelihood of a transference of any quantity of workmen from government to private contracts in the near future.

TRADE TANGLES IN CHINA AROUSE AMERICAN DEALERS

[By Associated Press.] Tientsin, China, Jan. 18.—Two American firms here have protested to the United States Minister Reisch at Peking concerning injustices they have suffered at the hands of the English traders acting under the screen of laws and regulations designed to cut off the trade of England's enemy and her allies. The two complaining firms are exporters of wool and former did a large business in Mongolia. At the time the war broke out these firms had extensive contracts for Mongolian wool. There was much delay in effecting the delivery of this wool, and finally the Trans-Siberian Railway said that it could not handle it. Russia and her allies needed the wool and could not allow it to be exported by the Americans.

However, the complaining firms say that an English concern doing business in China and Mongolia was permitted to purchase the wool under contract to the Americans, had it hauled to the United States and realized a handsome profit on the transaction.

Similar complaints have been made by American exporters in other Chinese ports, who insist that the English firms are using war regulations for their selfish ends and doing great injustice to neutrals in China.

SEVENTEEN STATE FARM ASSOCIATIONS IN MEET IN MADISON TODAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Jan. 18.—Seventeen state farm associations, directly connected with the training will hold their college of agriculture during Farm and Home Week, February 7 to 12. The program for this year has as its central idea the twenty-fifth anniversary of the invention of the Babcock fat test.

However, the complaining firms say that an English concern doing business in China and Mongolia was permitted to purchase the wool under contract to the Americans, had it hauled to the United States and realized a handsome profit on the transaction.

Similar complaints have been made by American exporters in other Chinese ports, who insist that the English firms are using war regulations for their selfish ends and doing great injustice to neutrals in China.

OFFER COLLEGE COURSES FOR OFFICERS WOUNDED FIGHTING FOR GERMANY

[By Associated Press.] Berlin, Jan. 18.—College courses for officers disabled through wounds or other causes are now being offered, a start having been made by the Technological Institute at Aachen. The object of the courses is to fit officers who have been obliged to abandon their army careers through disability for positions as managers in the smaller cities, higher officials in the local bureaus, and other administrative posts which in Germany require a certain amount of preliminary theoretical education, and business positions generally. The courses include instruction in civil and administrative law, economics, banking, theory of insurance, statistics, commercial law, languages and many other subjects which the embryo business man or municipal official would find useful in his future career. A course of study covering four to five months and including five hours instruction daily is contemplated, tuition, being free for veteran officers and for such have the necessary preliminary education and social standing for such posts.

It must be remembered that the government was employing a fleet three times the size of the whole German mercantile marine put together.

On the question of state control of the entire mercantile shipping he argued that in view of the enormous difficulties in this way, they would have to be very careful before coming to any decision. On the other hand the opposite theory of leaving the mercantile fleet entirely free was not a possibility under war conditions.

Mr. Balfour said that the munitions bill (which had been delayed) included measures to encourage the industry of building mercantile tonnage and provided that under certain circumstances this construction would be carried on as war work. Every day of delay to such a bill delayed the completion of merchant ships, diminished tonnage, increased the price of necessities of life and many other factors essential for the proper conduct of the war.

JANUARY'S "SLOWING UP." The indoor life of winter, heavy food, cold weather and irregular exercise are apt to cause a dull, heavy, tired feeling that puts one just between sick and well because of impaired digestion. Foley Cathartic Tablets strengthen the action of the stomach and bowels, and tone up the system and give the light, free feeling of proper digestion and good health. Stout people prefer them to any other cathartic. They do not gripe.—W. T. Sherer.

ANNUAL MEETING IS BEING ARRANGED FOR

Directors of the Commercial Club Hold Their Regular Monday Noon Business Session.
Arrangements for the annual meeting of the Commercial Club were made over by the directors at the weekly meeting yesterday and as a part of the program the better acquainted the membership of the club with the activities of the organization during the past year, it was decided that the annual report of the various committees be made at the meeting. The meeting was held at 3 o'clock at the club offices to go over the records of the meeting and secure data for these reports.

The question of advancing the time limit for payment of taxes to a later date than January 31st was discussed to some extent. S. S. Noyes, chairman of the legislative committee, asked to look into the matter to see if something could not be done to bring this about. It would mean a relief to many of the people of the city if it can be done.

While no further direct work has been reported from Captain Davidson regarding the opening of the sugar factory there is a possibility that such may be the case from letters that have been received by two or three people directly. The question of best seed may enter into the operation of the plant and the club is seeking to get further word from Mr. Davidson as to his intentions and as to whether any assistance may be of value to him.

In connection with the annual meeting, the form of election of directors of other years will be followed again this year. The list of the entire club membership will be sent to each member with instructions to select one or five members to be voted on at the annual meeting which will occur on February 15th. The committee consisting of O. V. Loefer, J. P. Thoms and F. E. Greene were named to receive the list.

The executive committee were instructed to look out for a secretary to fill the office just vacated by W. J. McDowell.

The point brought out by Professor Holden in his talk before the Twilight club regarding the poor quality of seed corn, the possibility of a poor crop this coming year were discussed and in connection with the annual meeting of the C. A. country secretary it was thought some meetings at the various country school houses should be held showing some charts which Professor Holden furnished together with the use of some other material in connection with the testing of seed corn.

SOME VERY QUEER COSTUMES

Gorgeous Raiment Has Been Common to Many Famous Writers—Disraeli's Green Velvet Trousers.

The London Daily Chronicle, in its interesting miscellaneous column, says: "A liking of gorgeous raiment, such as characterized Emile Verhaeren in his youth, has been common to many famous writers." Disraeli as a young man startled the town by an evening dress comprising green velvet trousers, a canary-colored waistcoat, and a coat with lace cuffs. Dickens, likewise, was fond of a certain bright green waistcoat, which he wore in accompaniment with a vivid scarlet tie, and he turned up at Frith's studio one day in a sky-blue overcoat with red cuffs. Even more fearful and wonderful was Dumas' appearance at an ambassador's reception in a shirt on which were depicted a number of little red demons disporting themselves amid flames of yellow fire. "My costume was a grand success," he wrote; "everyone thronged round and made much of me."

Japanese Bird Pets.
The uguisu is the favorite bird pet of the Japanese, says the East and West News, and it is called the Japanese nightingale by virtue of its fine singing qualities. It is not remarkable for its beauty, but it has a reputation for needing a great deal of attention. It must be fed on specially prepared food—fresh water fish, green vegetables and bread, the whole being ground together and baked. The birds are divided into five grades according to excellence in singing and command prices ranging from 50 cents to $500.

About Oranges

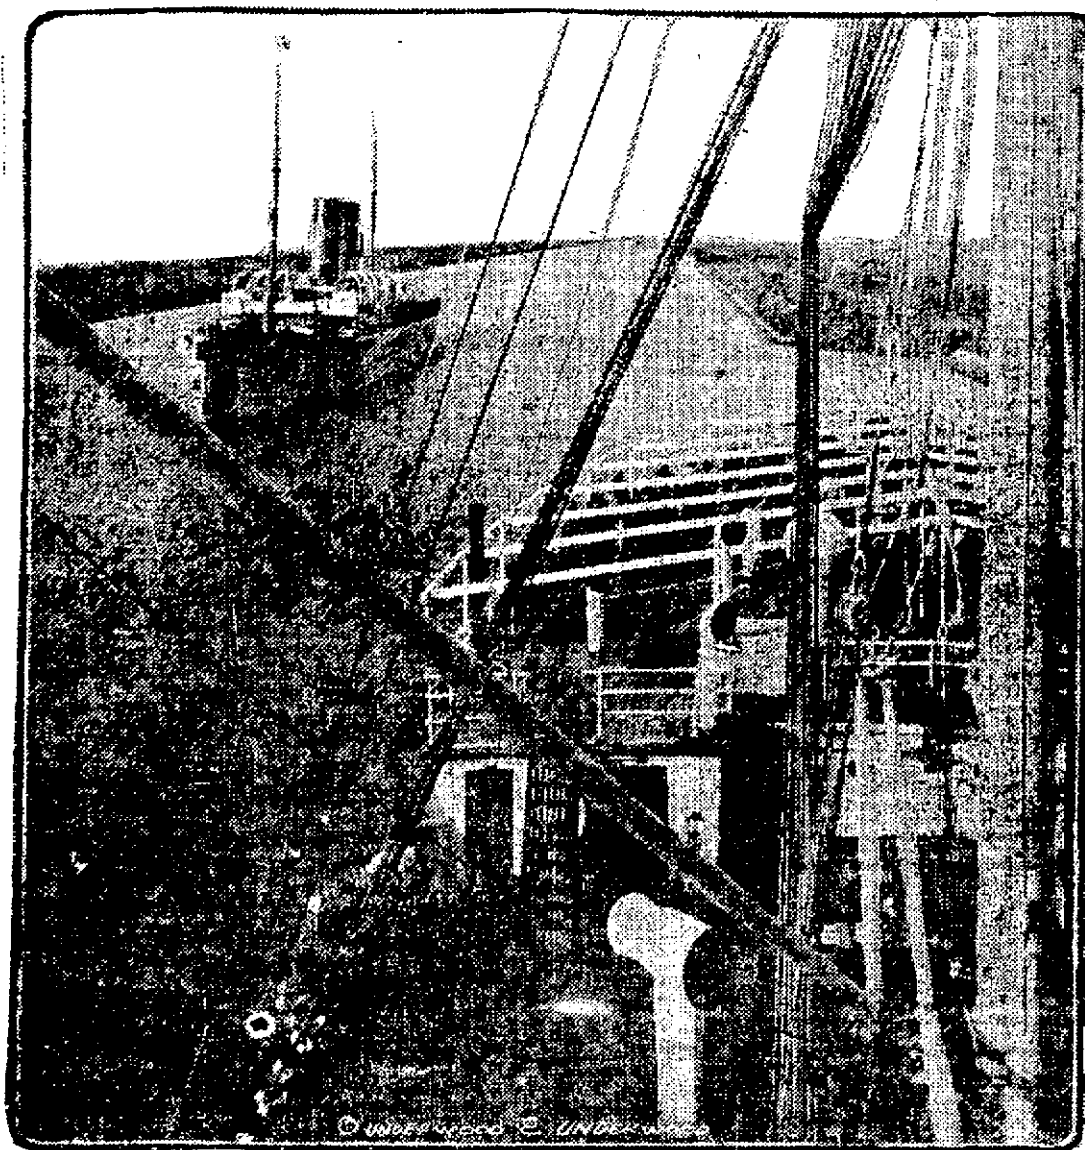

You know—when you stop to think about it—that the very best Cal. Navels come from the famous Redlands district. When you compare these oranges side by side with any others—as we have just had occasion to do—the difference is almost unbelievable.

The Redlands are so superior in flavor, sweetness and solidity of meat.

The finest Redlands are the Rose Redlands, and—don't take anybody's word for it.

Great Britain is worried by the German threat to launch a huge offensive against Egypt and the Suez Canal. Already a big Turkish army offered by Germans is believed to be moving toward Egypt.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

You can keep your hair at its very best by washing it with a teaspoonful of canthox dissolved in a cup of hot water, afterward rinsing thoroughly with clear water. One fluid that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is unstreaked, bright, soft and very fluffy, so fluffy in fact, that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. This simple, inexpensive shampoo cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all dandruff and dirt, and leaves a clean, wholesome feeling. All scalp irritation will disappear, and the hair will be brighter and glossier than ever before.—Advertisement.

Sound Waves.

A sound wave consists of an alternate compression and refraction of the air. A singular result of this was noted after a great powder explosion at Erith, England, in 1864. The leaded glass windows of a church several miles away were all strongly bent inward on all sides of the church. The explanation was given in these words: "The sound wave on reaching the church separated right and left, and for a moment the edifice was clasped by a grille of intensely compressed air, which forced all its windows inward." The subsequent dilation of the air was insufficient to force the bent panes back into shape.

Coal Mines of Holland.

Though the coal mines of Holland have not been developed to any great extent, yet it is known that extensive beds underlie Limburg, the most southerly province. Strange as it may seem, the coal mines of Holland are probably the most ancient, their records showing workings near Kerkrade as early as 1113. The pits now owned and worked by the state were for many centuries exploited by monks from the abbey of Kloosterade, who continued their mining operations until as late as 1795. The pits, now owned by the Hendrik, gave employment to 167 officials and 4,332 pit men.—Argonaut.

DYNAMITE PLOTTERS
SOON OUT OF PRISON

Indianapolis Men Sentenced For Conspiracy To Transport Explosives Soon Leave Prison.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 18.—Terms of several of the men found guilty at Indianapolis in December, 1915, of conspiracy to transport explosives illegally, will expire in the near future. Geo. Anderson of Cleveland, Ohio, is expected to leave the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth on January 28, having completed his term of three years; Edward Smythe of Peoria, Ill., will have finished his three-year sentence in May; E. W. Busey of Indianapolis will go out in July; J. L. Morris of St. Louis will leave the prison in August, while W. E. Reddin of Milwaukee and C. T. Baum, Minneapolis, will be free in September.

Based on good behavior time, Herbert S. Hookin of Detroit, John T. Butler of Buffalo, J. E. Mumsey, Salt Lake City, A. Cooley, New Orleans, and Frank C. Wood of whom were under six-year sentences and who remained in prison while their cases were pending in the United States Supreme Court, will go out on January 1, next.

Hookin was the only one of the men who did not appeal. Since coming to the prison, he has been tending a wagon on gate and as far as prison officials know, he has never seen any of his former associates. To the rest of the men Hookin is known as the "informant" and he is studiously avoided. Frank M. Ryan, President of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers at the time of his conviction, must serve until January 1918, unless pardoned or paroled. The head of the ironworkers, who was alleged to have had knowledge of the McNamara dynamiting plots, was given a seven-year sentence. While his appeal was pending Ryan left the prison on bond and was away from February 2, 1913, to June 25, 1914.

Since their imprisonment the ironworkers have accomplished the practical completion of the East wing cell house at the prison and for the first time it is understood recommendations have been made to the Department of Justice looking to a possible parole. Prison officials say all of the men have been satisfactory prisoners, observing the rules and doing their tasks willingly.

CONVENTION BUREAU
PLANS FOR ECONOMY

Reforms in the Holding of Conventions Is Urged by Association Which Meets at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 18.—Plans for minimizing the expense of a convention to the city where the meeting is held will be the chief subjects of discussion at the second annual meeting of the Association of Convention Bureaus, a national organization, which opened here today. Members of the association believe large expenditures of money to get conventions are unnecessary and at times burdensome and they hope to eliminate them by themselves will set the example for all national organizations. Financing their own entertainment by fixed contribution from each member. Publicity for both city and state, methods of entertaining conventions and various systems of operating convention bureaus are other subjects given prominent places on the program. No set speeches have been prepared and all meetings the discussions will be of an informal, round-table nature.

The first meeting of the association today will be without the formalities and welcoming addresses usual with conventions, this carrying out the idea not to accept entertainment from the city where the body meets. The association was organized in St. Louis at a membership meeting representing twenty cities. Leo Barrett, of Detroit, who was chosen secretary, was the prime mover. Eighty cities, including San Francisco, Rochester, N. Y., Atlanta, Memphis and Nashville, Tenn., have signified their intention of being represented this year.

AMERICAN PREDICTS
BLOODSHED IN CHINA
OVER MODERN CHANGES.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Peking, Jan. 18.—Dr. Arthur H. Smith of the American Mission Board delivered an address before the American College Club of North China at the semi-annual dinner at the Peking Young Men's Christian Association in which he predicted that much blood must be shed in China and years of unrest and experiment must be endured before the Chinese government can adjust itself to the changing conditions of modern times. He said that in his opinion bloodshed will come in a few years, possibly in a very short time.

Dr. Smith said in part: "A monarchy is a strong ship which may sink. China is not a real republic because the masses are unintelligent and it takes several generations and centuries to develop a true republic. China is a mass of unrelated atoms, unconscious of each other and all this needs chemical attraction. China must have external pressure to mould together this unrelated mass, the same as were the American colonies, solidified by the unity of George the Third. The element of progress is necessary, and political parties, cliques, sectional strifes all tend to hinder the development of the state. Men of courage are needed; you must have more men who are willing to die and willing to work together for some good cause. Stand ready to sacrifice yourselves for the good of the country."

More than two hundred graduates of American colleges attended the banquet, and of this number about fifty were American citizens resident in China. Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, the American minister, Julian H. Arnold, the commercial attaché of the American Legation, Roy S. Anderson, commercial adviser to the Chinese government, Dr. W. F. Willoughby, legal adviser to the Chinese government, Dr. Henry C. Adams, who is reorganizing the Chinese system of railway accounting, and many other prominent Americans were in attendance. Harvard, Yale, California, and Wisconsin had the largest alumni delegations present. Admiral Tsao Chai-shiang, vice-minister of the navy and president of the club, acted as toastmaster.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND
BY DAISY DEAN

Pretty little Marguerite Courtot has left New York for the winter quarters at Jacksonville, Fla., a fortnight ago, carrying with her a long time contract as a star in feature productions.

Miss Courtot will star in one of the companies at work making five-reel feature productions for her company, since Miss Courtot is one of French descent, General Manager P. C. Bradford has secured both a French director and a French cameraman. Her photoplays will be directed by Henry J. Vernot and the camera will be handled by Andre Balatier.

Special scenarios are now being prepared which will display to the utmost Miss Courtot's charm. It is expected that the first release in which she will be featured will be shown on the screen in February.

NEWLY PHOTOPLAYS
TO BE WITH US SOON

The world is soon to be enriched with another photoplay company which has stolen silently upon us with as little demonstration as a film company ever was known to make. In fact, the idea prevails that the veil of secrecy has slipped off before the contest was quite ready to be unveiled.

The first production is to be launched about January 24. The idea of it is one of exceptionally strong feature every week, measuring five or more reels, preferably six or seven. These features are to be both made and bought. The studio location is not given out.

An air of newspaperdom pervades the release which entitled "The Fourth Estate," a dramatic film story that his at forces that conspire to control the public press. It was written by Joseph Medill Patterson and produced for William Fox by Frank Powell with Ruth Blair, Samuel Ryan and Clifford Bruce in the portrayals of the leading characters. The story was filmed in Chicago in the plant of a Chicago paper being used for the scenes representing the interior of a newspaper office.

"CHIMMIE" AGAIN
MAKES MANY LAUGHS

Victor Moore Makes Second Appearance in His Great Photoplay Role.

Those who braved the cold last night to see Victor Moore in "Chimmie Fadden Out West," at the Apollo, were treated to one of the best all-around good times a picture audience has ever been favored with.

The story is full of subtle comedy touches. There are situations of exquisite funniness, not slapstick, but straight comedy, and then, toward the end, there is a dash of heart stuff that puts a poignant thrill of humaneness into the little story.

This was the second of the "Chimmie Fadden" series and while not connected, the same leading cast is utilized. If incidents of interest can be evolved, Chimmie is good for an extended series. The public would like to see more.

FLORENCE REED
IN DEEP PLAY

Pretty Actress Carries Heavy Part in Picturized Version of Famous Play "At Bay."

Rushing headlong into an abyss, where she is brought to bay by an overwhelming avalanche of circumstances, Florence Reed playing in the picture version of George Scarborough's stage-play success "At Bay" last night at the Majestic, raised herself from many serious complications by adhering to a policy of honesty, which she brought out to good advantage. She portrayed beautifully the district attorney's daughter, inheriting in herself a wonderful and impetuous creature of love and emotion.

The plot of the play was delightfully fashioned, the photography, coupled up with the Majestic's ideal lighting system, wonderful, making the characters and scenes stand out before your eyes in nearly real life like reality. Florence Reed, starring in "At Bay" will be shown again this evening.

AT THE APOLLO.

Clara Kimball Young in "Marrying Money."

World Film Corporation presents tonight the comedy photoplay "Marrying Money," in which Clara Kimball Young is starred.

Miss Young's versatility will have a chance of showing itself to advantage in this film; she is equally at home in comedy roles as well as dramatic.

The story of "Marrying Money" is a satire upon matrimony, nothing more nor less. It depicts the marriage game, as it is frequently played in all its unmistakable cynicism and baseness, although it does not overlook the humorous side of the matter.

Mrs. Niles, an ambitious society lady, has a pretty daughter, Mildred, played by Clara Kimball Young, and she wants the girl to make a good match. Along comes a young eligible count who, however, hasn't got anything more to recommend him to Mildred than his title. Exit his countship. As Mr. Niles, Mildred's father, falls in business, it is imperative that the girl should now marry real money. Instead of which she falls in love with a penniless young fellow, Chester Blinn, and they are married. There is consternation in the bride's family, which is removed when it is revealed that the young bridegroom inherits money.

AT THE APOLLO.

Charles Cherry in "The Mummy and the Humming Bird."

Charles Cherry, the famous Frohman star, whose name is known to every theatregoer in the country, makes his first appearance on the screen at the Apollo Wednesday, in the celebrated dramatic success, "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," under the auspices of the Famous Players Film Company, by special arrangement with the Charles Frohman estate. That the photoplay public is afforded the great pleasure of seeing this distinguished actor on the screen, is due to the persistent effort of the Famous Players to induce Mr. Cherry to become a photoplay star after the repeated failure of several other film manufacturers to do so.

The play selected for Mr. Cherry's debut is one which has won laurels in this country and abroad, and one which develops to the full his far famed ability as a light comedy and dramatic actor. There are numerous powerful dramatic situations which afford him ample opportunity to display to the full his complete mastery of forceful dramatic action.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Screen Star Wins New Laurels in Masterpicture.

Petite Dorothy Gish, whose name throughout filmland is synonymous with everything big in motion picture work, as "Mercy" in "Bred in the Bone," a mutual masterpiece in five acts, produced by the Reliance Motion Picture Corporation, rises to what many critics aver is her greatest screen triumph.

This beautiful and accomplished young star of the silent drama, is beyond question, one of the foremost portrayers of emotional and dramatic roles now before the public. She has been featured in a countless number of Mutual feature releases, and her followers are counted by the thousands, yet it is doubtful if she has ever presented a more pleasing characterization, or a more touching one, than she does in the role of Mercy, this heart-stirring, Mutual masterpiece, "Bred in the Bone" will be seen at the Majestic tomorrow only.

AT THE PRINCESS.

Motion Pictures of Billy Sunday. Tomorrow the Princess will present a picture that should be of interest to a majority of the public. Much has been heard and read of the world famous evangelist, Billy Sunday, and very few in Janesville have heard or seen him.

In this picture he will be seen in action and his principal sermons picturized. Judging from what has been learned of the picture there will be large crowds to see this much-talked of man.

THE BRIGHT SIDE.

If you have faith preach it. If you have doubts bury them. If you have joy share it. If you have sorrow bear it. Find the bright side of things and help others to find it also. This is the surest way to be cheerful and happy.

What She Feared. "I love you," he said. "Let us be sweethearts." "You admire beauty?" "Yes. My only books are woman's looks." "I think," said the girl, "that we had better not become engaged. I fear that you could not be contented with a library of one volume."—Pittsburgh Post.

How He Wrote His Name. Quill pens were made in the fifth century. There is no record of their earlier use. Theodorie, the Ostrogoth king, is said to have been illiterate and unable to write his own name. A golden plate was made with the letters of his name cut through it. This was placed over the document he was expected to sign, and he traced his name through the open spaces with a quill.

The Lone Wolf

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Copyright, by Louis Joseph Vance.)

There was, indeed, no sign of ambush that he could detect in any quarter—no indication that Popinot's Apaches were skulking about. None the less, Lanyard produced his automatic and freed the safety catch before opening the door.

"A thousand thanks, my dear count!"

"For what? Doing myself a service? You make me ashamed!"

"I know," agreed Lanyard, deprecatingly; "but that's the way I am—a little devil—you really can't trust me! Adieu, M. le Comte."

"Au revoir, monsieur!"

Lanyard watched the car round the corner before turning to the entrance of Troyon's, simultaneously keeping his weather eye bright. But when the motor was gone the street seemed quite deserted and as soundless as though it had been the thoroughfare of some remote village rather than an artery of the pulsing old heart of Paris.

Yet he wasn't satisfied. He even shivered a bit, perhaps because of the chill in that air of early morning, possibly because a shadow of premonition had fallen athwart his soul.

Whatever its cause, he could find no excuse for the sensation, and shaking himself impatiently, pressed the button that rang a bell by the ear of the concierge, heard the latch click, thrust the door wide, and re-entered Troyon's.

Here reigned a silence even more marked than that of the street, a silence as heavy and profound as the grave's, so that sheer instinct prompted Lanyard to tread lightly as he made his way down the passage and across the courtyard toward the stairway; and in that hush the creak of a greasy hinge, when the concierge opened the door of his quarters to assure himself of the identity of this belated guest, seemed little less than downright profanity.

Lanyard paused and delved into his pockets, nodding genially to the bloated, sleepy old face beneath the guardian's nightcap.

"Sorry to disturb you, monsieur," he said politely, further impoverishing himself in the sum of five francs in witness to the sincerity of his regrets.

"I thank monsieur; but what need to consider me? It's my duty. And what is one interruption more or less? All night they come and go."

"Good night, monsieur," Lanyard cut short the old man's garrulity, and went on up the stairs, now a little wearily, of a sudden newly conscious of his enervating fatigue.

He thought longingly of bed, yawned involuntarily, and reaching his door fumbled the key in a most unprofessional way; there were weights upon his eyelids, a heaviness in his brain.

But the key met with no resistance from the wards, and in a trice, appreciating this fact, Lanyard was wide awake again.

No question but that he had locked the room securely on leaving after his adventure with the charming somnambulist.

Had she, then, contracted the habit? Or was this only proof of what he had anticipated in the beginning—a bit of sleuthing on the part of Roddy? He entertained little doubt as to the correctness of this latter surmise as he threw the door open and stepped into the room, his first action being to grasp the electric switch. But no light answered.

"Hello!" he exclaimed softly, remembering that the light could readily have been turned off at the bulbs.

"What's the good of that?"

In the same breath he started violently and swung about.

The door had closed behind him, swiftly but gently, eclipsing the faint light from the hall, leaving stark darkness.

His first impression was that the intruder—Roddy, or whoever it might be—had darted past him and out, pulling the door to in the act.

Before he could consciously revise this misconception he was fighting for his life.

So unexpected, so swift and sudden fell the assault that he was caught completely on guard—between the shutting of the door and an onslaught whose violence sent him reeling to the wall, the flight of time could have been measured by the flickering of an eyelash.

Two powerful arms were round his body, pinioning his hands to his sides, his feet were tripped from under him, and he was thrown with a force that fairly jarred his teeth.

For a breath he lay dazed, struggling feebly; not long, but long enough to enable his antagonist to shift his hold and climb on top of his body, where he squatted, bearing down heavily with a knee on either of Lanyard's forearms two hands encircling his neck, murderous thumbs digging into his windpipe.

He revived momentarily, pulled himself together, and leaved mightily in a futile effort to unsettle the other.

The sole result of this was tightening pressure on his throat.

The pain grew agonizing; Lanyard's breath was almost completely shut off; he gasped vainly; his eyeballs started; a myriad lights danced blindingly before them; in his ears there rang a roaring like the beat of heavy surf upon a rockbound coast.

Then of a sudden he ceased to struggle and lay slack and passive in the other's hands.

Only an instant longer was the clutch on his throat maintained. Both hands left it quickly, one shifting to his head to turn and press it roughly, cheek to the floor. Simultaneously he was aware of the other hand fumbling about his neck, and then of a touch of metal and the sting of a needle driven into the flesh beneath his ear.

That galvanized him; he came to life again in a twinkling, animate with threefold strength and cunning. The man on his chest was thrown off as by a young earthquake, and Lanyard's right arm was no sooner free than it shot out with blind but deadly accuracy to the point of his assailant's jaw. A click of teeth was followed by a sickish grunt as the man lurched over.

And then Lanyard was scrambling to his feet, a bit giddy, perhaps, but still sufficiently master of his wits to whip his pistol out before making one further move.

CHAPTER XI.

Turn About.

Lanyard now thought of his pocket flash-lamp, and immediately its wide circle of light enveloped his antagonist.

The fellow was resting on a shoulder, legs uncouthly asprawl, quite without movement of any perceptible sort; his face more than half turned to the floor, and masked into the bargain.

Incredulously Lanyard stirred the body with a foot, holding his weapon poised as though half expecting the form to quicken with instant and violent action; but it responded in no way.

With a nod of satisfaction he shifted the light until it marked the nearest electric bulb, which proved, in line with his inference, to have been extinguished by the socket key rather than by the wall switch while the heat of the bulb indicated that the current had been shut off only an instant before his entrance.

The light flung up, he went back to the thug, knelt, and, lifting the body, turned it upon its back.

Recognition immediately rewarded

this maneuver: the masked face upturned to the glare was that of the American who had made a fourth in the concert of the Pack—"Mr. Smith."

Quickly unlatching the mask, Lanyard removed it; but the countenance thus exposed told little more than he knew; he could have sworn he had never seen it before. None the less, something in its saturnine cast persistently troubled his memory with the same provoking and baffling effect that had attended their first encounter.

Already the American was struggling toward consciousness. His lips and eyelids twitched spasmodically, he shuddered, and his flexed muscles began to relax. In this process something fell from between the fingers of his right hand—something small and silver-bright that caught Lanyard's eye.

Picking it up, he examined with interest a small hypodermic syringe, loaded to the full capacity, plunger drawn back—all ready for instant use.

It was the needle of this instrument that had pricked the skin of Lanyard's neck; beyond reasonable doubt it contained a soporific, if not exactly a killing dose of some narcotic drug—cocaine, at a venture.

So it appeared that this agent of the Pack had been commissioned to put the Lone Wolf to sleep for an hour or two or more—perhaps not permanently—that he might be out of the way long enough for their purposes.

Lanyard smiled grimly, fingering the hypodermic and eying the prostrate man.

"Turn about," he reflected, "is said to be fair play. Well, why not?"

With this he bent forward, dug the needle into the wrist of the American, and shot the plunger home, all in a single movement so swift and deft that the drug was delivered before the pain could startle the victim from his coma.

As for that, he recovered quickly enough; but only to have his clearing senses met and dashed by the muzzle of a pistol stamping a cold ring upon his temple.

"Lie perfectly quiet, my dear Mr. Smith," Lanyard advised; "don't speak above a whisper! Give the dope a chance; it'll only want a moment—or I'm no judge and you're a careless highbinder! I'd like to know, however, if it's all the same to you—"

But the drug was taking swift effect; the look of panic which had drawn the features of the American and flickered from his eyes, with dawning appreciation of his plight, was clouding, fading, blending into one of daze and stupor. The eyelids fluttered and lay still; the lips moved as if with urgent desire to speak, but were dumb; a long, convulsive sigh shook the American's body, and he rested with the immobility of the dead, but for the slow and steady rise and fall of his bosom.

Thoughtfully Lanyard reviewed these phenomena.

"Must kick like a mule, that dope!" he reflected. "Lucky it didn't get me before I guessed what was up! If I'd suspected its strength, however, I'd have been less hasty—I could do with a little information from Mr. Mysterious Stranger here!"

Suddenly conscious of his dry and burning throat, he rose, and going to the washstand, drank deep and thirstily from a water-bottle, then set himself resolutely to repair the disarray of his wits and consider what was best to be done.

In abstraction he wandered to a chair over whose back hung a light dressing gown of wine-colored silk, which, because it would pack in small compass, he was in the habit of carrying with him on his travels. Lanyard had left this thrown across the bed, and he was wondering subconsciously what use the other man had thought to make of it that he should have taken the trouble to remove it to the chair.

But even as he laid hold of it he dropped the garment in sheer surprise to find it damp and heavy in his grasp, sodden with viscid moisture. And when, in a swift flash of intuition, he examined his fingers, he discovered thereon a faint discoloration—a reddish stain.

Had the dye run? And why had the American come to dabble the thing in water?

Then the shape of an object on the floor near his feet arrested Lanyard's questioning vision. He stared, incredulous, moved forward, bent over, and picked it up, clipping it gingerly between his fingers.

It was one of his razors—a heavy, hollow-ground blade—and it was foul with blood.

With a low cry, suddenly smitten with understanding, Lanyard wheeled and stared fearfully at the door communicating with Roddy's room.

It stood ajar, an inch or so, its splintered lock accounted for by a small but extremely efficient steel jimmy which lay near the threshold.

Beyond the door—darkness—silence. Mustering all his courage, the adventurer strode determinedly into the adjoining room.

The first flash of his hand-lamp discovered to him sickening justification for his apprehensions.

After a moment he returned, shut the door, and set his back against it, as if to bar out that reeking shambles. He was very pale, his face drawn with horror, and he was shaken with nausea.

Now he knew why his dressing gown had been requisitioned—to protect a butcher's clothing.

The plot was damnable patent—Roddy, somehow a menace to the Pack, required elimination; not only had his murder been decreed, but that the blame for it should be laid at Lanyard's door. Hence the attempt to drug him that he might not escape before the police could be sent to find him there.

Lanyard could no longer doubt that De Morbihan had been left behind at the Circle of Friends of Harmony solely to detain him, afford Smith time to finish his hideous job, and set the trap for the second victim.

And the plot had succeeded despite its partial failure, despite the swift reverse chance and Lanyard's cunning had meted out to the Pack's agent. In was his dressing gown that was saturated with Roddy's blood, just as those were his gloves, pilfered from his luggage, which had measurably protected the killer's hands, and which Lanyard had found in the next room, stripped hastily off and thrown to the floor, twin crumpled wads of blood-stained chamois skin.

He had now little choice; he must either flee Paris and rely on his wits to save him, or else seek De Morbihan and trust to his protection, to his influence in high quarters.

Dinner Stories

A certain father, hearing his young hopeful in a quarrel with a neighbor boy, went out to investigate. He heard the following:

"You shut up! My mamma's baby is just as good as your old baby," said the neighbor boy.

"Taint, neither," retorted the listening man's youngster, whose parents had recently purchased a new auto. "Your baby is an old last year's one, and ours is a 1915 model!"

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

"I've just had a chat with your wife," he began.

"Why, I didn't know she was in town," replied the other. "I called at your house."

"I didn't know she was receiving today," said the husband, with some surprise. "I thought she had a headache?"

"She didn't mention it to me," said the calm man. "There was quite a crowd at the house."

"A crowd!" echoed the husband. "Yes," went on the calm man. "They came with the fire-engine."

"The fire-engine!" gasped the husband.

"Oh, it's all right," went on the calm man. "It's all out now. It wasn't much of a fire, but I thought you'd like to know of it."—Pearson's Weekly.

How to Make Want Ads Pay

Example No. 7—

Avoid Humor

Suppose you were reading our Want Ad columns, looking for a business opening. You have a few hundred dollars, let us assume, and wish to invest it in some business that will also employ you.

In the Business Chance columns, you notice two Want Ads in particular that cover about what you wish. Here they are:

SAMPLE No. 1 OF A SLANGY WANT AD

$500 BUYS A HALF INTEREST in an office supply business. We have made 60% on our capital since organization. Going some, eh? Do you think you would be game enough to sit in with us? No pikers or thin-skinned fellows wanted.

COMMENT No. 1

There is a sort of twaddle, slipshod, pool-room atmosphere to this advertisement. You would be inclined to not risk your money.

SAMPLE No. 2 OF COMMONSENSE WANT AD

$500 BUYS A HALF INTEREST in a going, expanding office supply business. We started with $200 and our investment now is $1200. We have paid good salaries, owe only current bills, have large bills receivable, and have never shown less than 60% net on our actual investment. In addition to salaries. For facts, address at once.

COMMENT No. 2

Here we have plain business sense. There is no jaunty air of sportiveness about this Want Ad. It is sincere, and it is dignified and would attract you were you looking for this kind of opening.

Business Matters are Always Serious

It is invariably a mistake to attempt to appeal to any person for business support on the basis of humor, or slang, or street-corner expressions.

If you seek to gain confidence, which is essential in some degree always, you must make your approach (which means your Want Ad) businesslike.

Careless wording of your Want Ad detracts at once from its pulling power. Then a great number of readers can be of small value to you.

The only kind of Want Ad that will permit humor, is the kind that advertises some humorous book, toy or similar device.

Be in earnest and

STATE ROAD SCHOOL
HAS BEEN ARRANGEDFifth Annual Meeting of Highway Experts Will Be Held at Madison
Jan. 31 to Feb. 5

Charles E. Moore, Rock county highway commissioner, and several of the township supervisors who are interested in good roads, will attend the fifth annual meeting of the Wisconsin highway commission which will be held at Madison, Jan. 31 to Feb. 5, at the assembly chamber at Madison.

At these meetings there will be discussed practically every question concerning the various types of roads and bridges; methods, machinery and tools used in construction and maintenance as well as the state highway law and its requirements and provisions.

Owing to the creation of the new county road and bridge committees, and the increased state wide interest in the subject of road construction and maintenance, it is expected that the attendance at the coming road school will surpass that of any previous year, although the Wisconsin road schools have always been well attended.

For convenience, closely allied problems are being placed on the program for discussion the same day. The program will be: Reception Day; Tuesday, Administration Day; Wednesday, Construction Day; Thursday, Maintenance Day; Friday, Miscellaneous Problems and County Highway Commissioners' Day; Saturday, Contracts and Accounting.

Any criticism of Wisconsin, whether officially connected with state and work or not, is invited and welcomed at all sessions. While the program is designed especially to meet the needs of county highway commissioners, county committees, and road committees, and city officials have found much to interest them in the program and exhibits. The exhibit of road machinery and tools, always a feature of the road schools, will probably be even more complete than usual.

PETEY DINK—IT LOOKS LIKE COMPLICATIONS HAVE SET IN, EH PETE?

SPORTS

GRAVES IS BEATEN

BY TED "KID" LEWIS

English Welterweight Too Shifty and Fast for American in Fast Ten Round Mill.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Milwaukee, Jan. 18.—Ted Lewis showed his ability with the fighting gloves to the west for the first time last night when he outpointed Kid Graves in ten fast rounds of milling at Milwaukee. The phantom speed of the Britisher with his flashy left and powerful right proved too much for the American veteran. Both of these boxers hold claims to the welterweight title. Since Mike Glover has gained a twelve round decision over Lewis, Glover and Lewis will be matched in Milwaukee during February.

Lewis was unable to floor Graves or come near it, but he gave him a neat trifling during nine of the rounds. Graves simply could not hit Lewis with his left, or could not reach him effectively with his right. Lewis' piston left found its mark with wicked power and force time after time for a point victory.

Willard Signs Again.
Willard, champion heavyweight pugilist, was signed by Jack Curley for a fight with Frank Moran of Pittsburgh tonight. The fight will be held in New York and will go ten rounds. It was announced. No definite date was set for the match, which will be held some time between April 10 and 22.

Refuse a Decision.
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 18.—The request of local promoters for permission to give a referee's decision in the ten round bout between Mike Gibbons and Young Abraham tomorrow night was denied by the Minnesota boxing commission at a meeting today. The commission issued a special license permitting Jack McGuigan of Philadelphia to referee.

Waukeesa Gets License.
Madison, Wis., Jan. 18.—The spring city Athletic club of Waukeesa, organized to conduct boxing shows, was granted a charter by the secretary of

NORTHERN WISCONSIN BOWLERS IN TOURNEY OPENING AT WAUSAU.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Wausau, Jan. 18.—Northern Wisconsin bowlers are here for the opening of what promises to be the largest bowling tournament ever held in the state, outside of the regular annual meet. Prizes amounting to $2,000 have been announced.

The association includes Grand Rapids, Green Bay, Stevens Point, Marshfield, Waunakee, and other cities in the northern part of the state. Statements that there is ill feeling between the northern association and the state organizations seem unfounded, as it is almost impossible for the northern men to attend the state meet.

GIANTS PURCHASE KAUFF FOR THIRTY THOUSAND.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
New York, Jan. 18.—President Harry N. Hempstead of the New York Giants announced today that he had purchased Benny Kauff star outfielder of the Federal League. W. A. Bardoin, catcher for Newark, and Fred Anderson, pitcher for Buffalo.

The deal was made through Harry P. Sinclair, who has had an option on the services of the three players. The money consideration was not divulged. Among the rumors was one that Kauff's transfer and services will cost the Giants $30,000.

Among baseball men it is believed that Sinclair's action in selling the players to the Giants virtually ends all rumors that he is to purchase the club.

MORRIS MILLER

Coast league clubs do not seem to be enthusiastic over the chances of getting back any of their jumpers. The most of them, if the statements of club owners are to be believed, helped the circuit by cutting it and the positions they vacated have been filled by players much better in every way.

Umpire Billy Evans has the inside track to be appointed chairman of the boxing commission which is to supervise the game in Cleveland.

The charge that the American league is topheavy in that only three clubs in the circuit have a chance to finish first is no longer true. The merger of the two St. Louis teams, with Fielder Jones in charge, will make the Browns a formidable enough proposition to give the Red Sox, Tigers and White Sox a battle. If Griffith can add the batting strength needed, he will have a team which will have to be reckoned with. And even Cleveland stands a chance of being a contender should Gwinnier, the Pittsburgh Federal League magnate, buy Sonora's interest and consolidate the Pitts and Indians, for Gwinnier's team was a strong one in the Federal league, being barely beaten out of the pennant last season by the Chicago Cubs, who won out the final days of the season.

There is no question that the New York Giants, with Polo Grounds included, are worth every cent of the $1,400,000 that Hempstead has asked for the 62 per cent, or the stock of the club. The club holds a ninety-nine-year lease on the site the Polo Grounds are on, and there is no more modern ball park in the country and no better town to get the money with a winning team. If franchisees like those of St. Louis Browns and Chicago Cubs are worth over half a million dollars the figure set by Hempstead is comparatively reasonable, and if Sinclair and Courtney are sincere in their desire to become owners of the Giants they can well afford to pay the price and be assured of big profits they can give McGraw the players required to make the Giants a winning aggregation.

With reference to the report that the national commission will be dissolved during the present season, Chairman Herrmann issues a heavy press denial. "There is absolutely no truth in any such rumor," he says. The commission has just concluded its annual meeting in perfect harmony by electing officers for the ensuing year, and there will positively be no change for that time, at least.

Carl Zamlock, former Denver, St. Louis, Detroit, Montgomery, Boston, Sacramento pitcher, will attempt to break into the Coast league next year as first baseman. Zamlock has been signed by the Ocala, Fla. team, a heavy batter, but may have considerable difficulty trying to fill Jack Ness' pants.

The Natted combination in Chicago will not repudiate the contract made by the old Cub management to train at Tampa, there being a contract entered into that can not well be broken. If plans are changed, through the new Tinkers will number about fifty men in camp and if the Tampa people have agreed to feed them all they may yet regret the contract.

Though there may be few players in the Federal league really worth while, even the injection of these few men into a league as closely balanced as the National is likely to have much effect and the clubs that can obtain two or three of the best Federal talent are likely to have a strong edge on their opponents.

Another of the players of the White Autos, the Cleveland amateur champions, will get a trial in the majors. He is Bill Cole, outfielder. "Big Six" Crowley, pitcher of the White Autos, was signed by Branch Rickey of the Browns several weeks ago, and it is presumed he will get a trial in the spring.

To show how Jimmy Callahan looks at things in Pittsburgh. He was asked about training plans for the Pirates, "I really don't know yet," he said, "and you will have to wait until I see Wagner about that." Callahan made it clear that he expected to depend much upon Honus in all plans for the team.

Lee Magee, like Benny Kauff, has expressed his preferences. He wants to play in New York and inclines to the view that the Yanks are the team that should have his services. Having cavorted in both National and Federal leagues, he now wants American league fans to glimpse him. Next to New York, says Magee, Chicago is his choice, with Boston his last choice and St. Louis next to last.

It was not to keep from paying Jack Lapp a big salary that Connie Mack under the White Sox a present of the veteran catcher, for it is learned on good authority that Jack's contract calls for only $3,000 per season, and is not as much as the average catcher will draw from the major league clubs during the next campaign. Mack knows that Lapp's days are about over. He still is a good hitter at times, but Mack figures that his young catcher, headed by Schang, will take care of that department. The White Sox can better afford to carry a $3,000 substitute catcher than can Mack.

According to Ed Barrows, president of the international league, all negotiations with the former Federal league magnates are off for the reason that there has been a hesitancy on the part of the latter in getting together and settling their affairs. Barrows has grown tired of waiting, and says he has a lot of work to do to get his own league straightened out. Hence, he will not bother with the Feds.

Johnny Coulon.

Johnny Coulon, ex-bantamweight champion who wore the crown for a little more than five years and then gave it to Kid Williams of Baltimore, hopes to stage a "comeback" soon. He will meet Young Sandow, a lanky newcomer in bantamweight ranks, this month.

"Tux" is the happy smoke. It just packs the smoker's calendar so plumb full of fragrant delight that a gloomy day can't crowd itself in edgewise. That mild, soothing taste of "Tux" has introduced many a man to the joy of pipe-smoking and a regular unending procession of happy days.

MARCUS J. WRIGHT

"Owing to its mild, sweet flavor, Tuxedo is superior to all other tobaccos. I enjoy smoking it immensely and recommend it to all smokers."

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

By far the most pleasant pipe-smoke in the world is Tuxedo. Think of the supreme satisfaction of being able to smoke your pipe all day, and day after day, without a particle of discomfort! You can do it with Tuxedo—because Tuxedo is made wonderfully mild and absolutely biteless by the original "Tuxedo Process."

That process is what makes Tuxedo different from any other tobacco made. Others have tried to imitate it, but never successfully.

Just try Tuxedo for a week and you'll smoke it ever after.

Eighth Annual Showing of Poultry Association Will be Largest and Finest Ever Held in Janesville.

Nine hundred prize fowls were in the different coops ready for exhibition this afternoon at the eighth annual showing of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry association, and the showing of the other clubs which are in connection with this show. It is expected by the directors of the association that many more will arrive by tomorrow as some of the exhibitors will bring their birds away from other shows in the state which are closing. At the opening this afternoon many people visited the building and showed much interest in the exhibition. The secretary of the association stated that a record attendance was expected this year and that the show was equipped to handle any number of visitors.

The judges of the poultry this year are W. E. Stanfield of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and V. H. Lusk of Waupun, Wisconsin. They have a nation-wide reputation as poultry judges and both have been at other shows acting as judges. Mr. Stanfield arrived this morning from Chicago, where he has been judging at the poultry show in Manitowish, Wis., which closed last week. While viewing some of the exhibits this morning they stated that the showing in Janesville would rank as one of the best that they had seen this season.

Many of the local fanciers have large numbers of birds entered. Edward Amerpoehl, who took some of the prizes at the World's Fair at St. Louis, has entered his prize birds. He has had birds at the Chicago show and these also will be entered.

Old men, young men, boys and even girls have their prize fowls at this show. One young lady of this city has a winning lot of Buff Orpingtons. She has spent her spare time in raising these birds without any intention of putting them on show until urged to do so by friends. Last year she took a number of prizes and this season will undoubtedly land a few honors. While the judges were giving prizes over her exhibits this morning, one of them stated that the young lady's exhibits would compare with any of the birds at the Chicago show. The prize of prize chickens which will be awarded to the winners of the free contest were also viewed by the judges. The birds to be given away have been donated by chicken fanciers and are a prize of honor. They will all average up with the prize winners and the persons receiving them will have a first class start to begin raising thoroughbred chickens. The prizes were given away this afternoon and again tonight three more will be awarded. This will continue until the close of the show and thirty prize fowls will be given away during the week.

NOTABLE VISITOR OF THE FLOWERY EMPIRE

Tsung Shih Liu, of Tien Tsin, China, Paid Janesville a Visit on Monday on Business.

Tsung Shih Liu, a resident of Tien Tsin, China, was a Janesville visitor on Monday, the guest of George S. Parker, and incidentally took luncheon at noon with the directors of the Commercial club. Tsung Shih Liu, who spent many years in various universities in this country, two years at Brown, one year at Yale and one year at Harvard, and is a typical representative of a progressive and up to date Chinese.

He speaks English fluently and is most interesting in his conversation. He is the customs and business usages in his native land. At present he is representing an organization of his home city, Tien Tsin, that would correspond with a chamber of commerce of an American city, seeking to select an American trade articles that would be useful to the Chinese in their development.

He is an ardent supporter of the republic, says that it is a mistake to turn the government over into a monarchy, but expects great development within the next twenty years in China when it really wakes from its slumber of centuries. For four hundred years, a mere trifling he apparently considers it, his family has been engaged in the business in Tien Tsin or Peking, and he is following in their footsteps.

While he will not personally represent his country, he will represent the Chinese, he will find a good reliable agent, and he took back with him a large amount of purchases from the local factory.

His long residence in the United States has thoroughly Americanized him, although he retains his love for his native land and its customs and the religion. He knew many notables of past decades, his father and grandfather, both of whom were friends of Li Hung Chang, one of the greatest Chinese personages, and he had seen him often when a young boy. One remarkable statement made during his visit was that China was most favorably inclined toward trade with the United States instead of Japan, and would like to secure a trade medium with this country.

Mr. Tsung Shih Liu left last evening for the Pacific coast where he will sail for China during the coming week, having completed his business in this country. Speaking of agriculture he said that many farmers even now use traction engines for the farm work and that modern machinery is coming into use in many districts.

ASKS WHY GASOLINE GOES UP IN PRICE

Senator McCumber.

Congress a few days ago took official cognizance of the recent jumps of the price in gasoline in the face of increased production, large reserve supplies and fewer exports than ever before, when the senate adopted the resolution of Senator McCumber of North Dakota, calling upon the interior department for all information in its possession regarding the matter. Senator McCumber suggested that the information obtained might be made the basis of an investigation.

fair, only a few of the intimate friends of the bride and groom being present to witness the happy event. At ten o'clock Mrs. John O'Connor began the wedding march, the officiating clergyman coming first, followed by the attendants, Mattie B. Ingold and John E. Terry. One corner of the parlor was used for the ceremony. The decorations were of pink and white tea roses and pink and white carnations. The bride was charming in her wedding dress of white embroidered chiffon over crepe de chine. The groom wore blue. After congratulations the wedding party departed for church, while Mrs. Sage and Mrs. Shurtz prepared a bountiful two course dinner. The bride is a young lady of excellent character and possessed of all the qualities of a true lady. The groom has grown from childhood up in our midst and is steady and industrious. Love.

Love has no doubts. To itself love is the very substance of reality. The phenomena of sight, sound, touch and their fellows are but the conditions under which life has made a foothold for itself in this boisterous world; the senses know nothing beyond their own functioning, they have nothing to say regarding the end or purpose of life. But to love, all the labor and effort of all the universe, with all its sidereal systems, with all its ethereal immensity, has been for the sake of producing love.

Of what consequence is it, whether insensible matter endure a myriad years, or assume infinite bigness, an infinity of matter is as nothing. One flash of conscious life illumined by love is worth all the patience, all the effort, all the labor, of unconscious energy throughout an infinity of time. Consciousness is but a minister to love. To the love that is to be—Atlantic Monthly.

The Copper Industry.

The copper industry and its methods of production are of exceptional interest just now, owing to the demand for this metal occasioned by the European war, as well as its extensive use in the commercial world for many purposes.

To illustrate the modern methods employed in mining copper, there has been constructed the most elaborate mine model in existence at the museum of natural history of New York. This represents quite a wonderful piece of miniature panoramic view of the famous Copper Queen mine at Bisbee, Ariz., which produces the largest amount of copper of any in the world. The gigantic model is L-shaped, 26 feet long and 10 feet deep, representing an area of 21,310 acres of land. Three years of critical labor was consumed in constructing this model.—World's Advance.

Expensive Perfumes.

Women who love sweet perfumes have little idea of the worth of the genuine floral extracts. Real attar of roses comes from the Orient. When perfectly pure it is of almost fabulous value. The secret of its preparation is carefully guarded, and the finest product is usually sold in quantities not exceeding a few drops. Violet is one of the perfumes that have been so closely imitated that thoughtless people never stop to discriminate, and buy the manufactured for the genuine article. The recent discovery of a chemical process by which a perfume can be produced which cannot, even by experts, be distinguished from true violet extract is a matter of importance, as this is one of the most popular of odors. The substance, however, is worth $100 per ounce wholesale.

A NEW DANGER TO AUTO-MOBILISTS.

The sharp change from super-heated apartments to the raw penetrating air outside, is responsible for an increasing number of coughs and colds among automobilists. For protection, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound ought to be in every automobile. La grippe and bronchial coughs, husky throat, hoarseness and constant hacking, yield very quickly to the soothing healing influence of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Keep a bottle in your vest pocket and steer clear of coughs and colds.—W. T. Shorer.

Prince Henri of Orleans.

Prince Henri of Orleans, at the opening of the war, offered his services to France, but was refused because of a law which prohibits any member of a one-time reigning house to fight in the French army. He crossed the channel to the nearest ally and secured a commission with the British expeditionary force.
